The Structure

For the Library^{1/2}

- Expand the offer of your library with an online-service available 24/7
- No order lists, no waiting: Multiple simultaneous access
- No need for a work-intensive check out/return process
- No staff time spent on tracking circulation, inspecting returns
- Decreased wear and tear on own sheet music books (originals)
- No material repairs (missing or damaged parts) or cleaning
- Decreased illegal copying and distribution of copyrighted editions
- Guaranteed score quality and virus free files
- On-going additions to the archive include hard-to-find compositions not available in most libraries.

For the Library^{2/2}

- Dedicated team of music content professionals available for reference
- No additional IT costs for the hosting of the new materials.
- Web-based : simple set up without having to install special software, no maintenance.
- Three methods for the registration of users are available:
 - Registration with an e-mail-address of the domain of the institution
 - Registration with individual access codes provided by Musicaneo
 - IP-address-based
- Low, fixed monthly cost

For the User_{1/2}

- Access 24/7 on-line to the full archive of scores with computers or mobile devices from anywhere, anytime, in-campus or remote access (depending on selected registration/authorization method)
- No reservations required, no waiting for material returns
- Reduced search time: Simple and easy multi-lingual keyword search with 8 category filters, including composer, genre, type of score, instrumentation, composition key and difficulty level
- Users can view, download, save and print scores – with the possibility to make notes on private copies.
- Lost parts or pages can simply be printed again.

For the User^{2/2}

- Static URLs to scores can be placed in teaching resources or sent by e-mail.
- Students and staff of subscribing institutions can create their own score lists.
- A friendly support team is ready to help with any questions and research.
